Yes, the thaw-fast plate will speed up the time it takes to thaw out foods. Since conduction is so fast through metals, the increased surface area of the grooves (which act like fins) will make the area available for convection increase, so $q = h A (T_s - T_{inf})$ will increase and the food will thaw faster.